

Video Streaming Guide:

What you'll need...

- A computer, smart phone, or tablet with high-speed and consistent internet connection. We recommend that you have this device plugged in and charging while viewing.
- Access to a web browser, such as Google Chrome or Safari.
- The video streaming website link to the event. This will either be provided in an email correspondence from the Harris Theater in advance, or available on our website here.

Did you purchase a ticket to an event but don't have the streaming link? Email us at info@harristheaterchicago.org and a member of our team will assist you!

How to watch...

-  Locate the arrow on the video viewer screen, and click on it to play the video. You will also find the option to increase or decrease volume located next to this black arrow or in the top right corner, depending on what type of device you are streaming on.
-  For full screen viewing from your computer, tablet, or phone, click (or tap) on the full screen icon at the bottom right hand corner of the video viewer
-  If you are planning to pair or mirror the video onto an airplay-enabled TV, hover your cursor over (or tap on) the video viewer and then click on the screen mirroring button at the bottom corner to pair or mirror your desktop, laptop, or smartphone onto the TV. Consult your TV manual for further instructions. You may also Chromecast any stream.

Additional Materials...

To view program notes while watching the video stream, we suggest either exiting the full-screen mode so that the program notes can be viewed on the same screen, or you can open the program notes on separate device (such as a second phone, computer, or tablet).

This is your experience....

- Use your headphones when watching on your personal device to optimize sound
- Adjust your screen brightness on your personal device or television to lighten or darken the image
